I hope you all enjoyed your holidays and I wish you a Happy New Year! I would like to take this time to introduce myself as your new Activities and Events Coordinator. I’m hoping to become a familiar face to many of you but to those that don’t know me yet; I have worked for NBM for the past 10 years in customer service, most recently in our Vergennes office.

I currently live in West Addison with my two teenage sons, a dog and two cats and I can honestly say there is never a dull moment in the Richards family! I enjoy spending time with my family and friends and will admit that I’m already patiently waiting for warmer weather to enjoy gardening, camping, kayaking, fishing, barbecues and visits to the ocean!

I’m really looking forward to this new journey and am excited about all the new possibilities for the New Horizons Club. I would love to hear from you and get your ideas on what we could bring to New Horizons; this is of course your club! I look forward to seeing you at our next event. Feel free to stop by, call or email me anytime!

News from the bank

There has been a lot of change lately with people being promoted to fill new roles. Because we love to promote from within, when one person moves up, another person gets to move into that role. The most recent string of promotions has resulted in two Community Office Manager positions: one at our Bristol Office, the other at our Route 7 Middlebury office. We filled both roles from within, so these should be familiar faces! Please give a warm welcome to Christine Wagner and Shay Leduc.

Christine Wagner joined National Bank of Middlebury in 1996. Over 21 years her positions have included Teller, Head Teller, Deposit Operations Manager and Security Officer. Christine enjoys reading and spending time with her family. She looks forward to meeting the Bristol community!

Shay Leduc was a Main Office teller prior to moving to the Bristol Office as a teller. She enjoys playing softball and hanging out with her dog. Shay currently lives in Salisbury and is looking forward to joining the Route 7 Office team and growing her career with NBM.

Maple syrup has long been part of Canada’s cultural fabric. The country’s Amerindian people taught the early settlers how to harvest sap and boil it to make maple syrup. Canada produces 75% of the world’s pure maple syrup, 91% of which is produced in Quebec. There are more than 8,600 maple syrup businesses in Canada. Travel across the border and discover the traditions that surround sugaring season in Quebec.

This sugaring-time outing takes you to the Sucrerie de la Montagne, settled on top of Mont-Rigaud on 120 acres of a natural maple grove. In the essence of Quebecois heritage, your visit includes a traditional lunch, live entertainment, a horse-drawn sleigh (or hay) ride and time to watch the sap boil over wood fires, as it magically becomes maple syrup.

The hearty luncheon is served in their 100-year-old restored barn that recreates the atmosphere of a traditional family dining room. The luncheon menu features homemade pickles, homemade bread and butter, French-Canadian pea soup, coleslaw, baked beans, maple-smoked ham, Quebecois meat pie, meatballs, potatoes, pork rinds, pancakes with maple syrup and maple taffy on snow.

Luncheon is followed by live entertainment offering traditional music with a chance to dance and sing along or to play the spoons!

Before you depart, visit their country-style general store filled with artisan crafts and maple syrup products. Bring home some sweet treats or unique gifts!

Eric Davis, Professor Emeritus at Middlebury College, is bringing another of his popular lectures to New Horizons! American public opinion and political institutions, particularly Congress, have become considerably more polarized along partisan and ideological lines in the last 25 years. We will look at trends in public opinion over this period, and demographic and political factors associated with the rise in polarization. We will explore changes in the political parties and the media in recent decades, and how they have both encouraged and responded to the increase in polarization. Finally, we will look at the implications of increased polarization on the political system’s ability to respond to increasingly complex public policy issues.

Family Secrets and a Mysterious Death in the Forbidden City

Another favorite local lecturer is returning to New Horizons! David Bain is a senior lecturer in English and American Literatures at Middlebury College. He will speak to us on his new in-progress book project called, “Forbidden City: Family Secrets, Covert Love, and a Mysterious Death and Cover-Up on Legation Street, Peking, 1940.”

It’s about the untimely death at age 25 of David’s uncle, Charles Haward, in his office at the American Embassy in Beijing/Peking, officially ruled a suicide. David’s research in State Department archives, and deep study of the 200 handwritten letters Charles wrote to his parents and sister from China, gives rise to a not-so-cut-and-dry case and alternative scenarios. The book is set against the dramatic backdrop of the Japanese occupation of China during the Sino-Japanese War, with America a “neutral” party at the time, 13 months before Pearl Harbor.

There will be scores of pictures to illustrate the talk, which touches upon a very interesting topic: family secrets. Consider this a sneak peek on a fascinating new book still in the making!

Andrea Torello

Continually visiting colleges is essential to our success with students. This is University of Southern California, January of 2017. I visited 9 colleges in the L.A. area that month.

COLLEGE BOUND

College Bound was founded in 1991 by Andrea L. Torello. Since then, Torello has worked with students privately and in school settings to help them find the best college fit and to comfortably navigate the college application process.

In 2013, College Bound joined with STRATEGIES FOR COLLEGE, a company that offers an extremely effective integrated approach to finding the right college at the right price. Strategies for College utilizes unique quantitative tools to determine a student’s competitive position for college admissions and favorable funding. We help students establish their priorities and we help families establish the financial considerations that inform the student’s college search. This approach assures that students will be admitted into the schools that best suit them, that they will be able to graduate without crushing debt, and that they will thrive while they are there.

The key to a successful college search is to start early (sophomore year is best) and to get good advice. Strategies for College students have a 95% graduation rate and an average annual scholarship of $14,000/year for four years. These numbers are well above national averages. Students and families will tell you they are very happy with their results from working with Strategies for College.

Exclusively for New Horizons members: Receive 10% discount on any college search or application package. Purchase of any package includes free Expected Family Contribution calculation.

With little fanfare, the U.S. Federal Reserve announced a monetary policy known as Quantitative Tightening, or “QT”, in September. If this term sounds somewhat familiar, that’s because it’s the opposite of Quantitative Easing, or “QE”, which began in response to the 2008 financial crisis and led to a $3.5 trillion influx of new money in an effort to jumpstart the U.S. economy. QE ended in 2014, and now the resulting debt from the Federal Reserve’s purchases of treasury and mortgage-backed securities is being removed from their balance sheet under this QT plan.

The tightening started with an initial $10 billion monthly roll-off of the Fed’s bond portfolio on their way to an eventual $50 billion monthly amount, or $600 billion per year. The Fed’s job is a delicate one, as they must balance the more conventional interest rate increases with this largely unconventional QT policy in an effort to normalize interest rates while not causing an economic downturn.

So as an investor and consumer, why should you care about QT? This strategy, while never implemented before, could remove some liquidity from the markets and could cause longer-term interest rates and mortgage rates to move higher. With a new year upon us, it may be a good time to review your own portfolio allocation to make sure you are in the right types of stocks and bonds to manage your risk while achieving your goals in this new environment.
